

Lifting Equipment Inspections

Applus+ offers a full range of services relating to the testing and inspection of all forms of lifting equipment and accessories. In addition, we train and certify personnel to the required local and international standards. Our teams are able to review a client's internal procedures, as well as supervise both heavy and technical lifts at locations across the globe. With over 20 years of experience both offshore and onshore, our teams offer unrivalled service with a focus on the health, safety and efficiency of your assets.

THE Applus+ SOLUTION

Our highly qualified and experienced teams work to both local statutory standards and international best practices. With the Health and Safety of our clients and their assets at the forefront of everything we do, our offices are accredited to ISO 17020 and 17024. In addition to being members of LEEA (Lifting Equipment Engineers Association), our internal procedures have been established to conform to both LOLER (Lifting Operations and Lifting Equipment Regulations) standards and individual country regulations.

Having your equipment and accessories inspected and certified by one of our qualified experts ensures that a client has confidence in the equipment that forms an essential part of their everyday work. With this knowledge, our clients minimize equipment downtime and ensure the health and safety of their personnel and equipment.

In addition to Testing and Inspection of equipment, Applus+ conducts training and certification of personnel who operate Lifting Equipment as part of their everyday role. Our courses are designed to suit the needs of the individual and meet both local and international standards to ensure that your greatest asset (people) is fully trained and competent in the safe operation of all types of lifting equipment and machinery.

Our team of senior experts is also able to review and certify your procedures for standard and heavy lifts, as well as supervise major technical lifts at locations across the globe.
